

The Gel paints helped me to create these beautiful poppies, and I have to say with relative ease. The steps are pretty self explanatory, but some points to remember.

1. I find the trick with any gel design is to Layer...layer...layer. You can see I have formulated the flowers initially with white gel paint. Cure this for a few seconds.
2. The next step is to blend the red and black together before blending. This is pretty effortless to be honest. This will also give you shadows.
3. You can see I have used the same method for the leaves. Placing the white gel paint down first.
4. A quick way to add the greens (by the way I have mixed these green colours, using the colours in the primary kit) is to double dip your brush, and roll it while you apply over your white.
5. Finally, don't forget the pigment collections can be used to enhance your colours, or by simply mixing the gold with the yellow gel paint you can lift the centre of the poppies.

Good luck, and I hope you enjoy using our gel paints.

Sam. xx

BE CREATIVE
inspired by sam.biddle

Gel paint is not just gel.....it is not only Paint.....it is not a polish.....